NEW YORK—Justice John R. Starkey of the State Supreme Court refused to lower bail for two Yemeni immigrants charged with conspiring to assassinate President-elect Nixon.

The two are Hussein Namer, 20, and his brother, Abdo, 18. Present in the courtroom was the boys' father, Ahmed, who is free on $25,000 bail under the same charge.

Attorney David Price asked the Court to reduce the $25,000 bail for the brothers to $7500. He told the Court the main witness against the Namers had threatened to "get even" with them for throwing him out of their apartment.
